Building Data Section

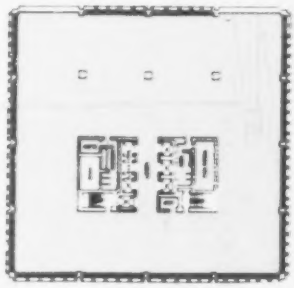
Question N°
1-4	The name and street address of the building being reported.
5-9	The name and mailing address of the person to whom the Expense Performance Comparison is to be sent.
10	Check the box if the person named in Question 5 is a member of BOMA International.
11	The name and telephone number of the person preparing the survey form.
12	The appropriate box checked indicates the method of floor measurement used to determine the building's square footage. (Note: if reporting in square meters, indicate this directly on the survey form.) If convenient, we prefer that you use the BOMA Standard Method of Floor Measurement "Rentable Area" full floor method as shown in the diagram below:

How to Calculate Rentable Area*

The Rentable Area of a floor shall be computed by measuring to the inside finished surface of the dominant portion of the permanent outer building walls, excluding any major vertical penetration of the floor.

No deductions shall be made for columns and projections necessary to the building.

Include space such as mechanical room, janitorial room, restrooms and lobby of the floor.



*Source: "Standard Method of Measuring Floor Area in Office Buildings" American National Standards Institute/BOMA International, 1980.

13B	Total rentable square footage of retail areas. Include space for physical fitness center and child care center if operated as stand-alone entities and are not subsidized as amenities. (see the definition of Other Space for amenities, Question 13C).
13C	Total rentable square footage of residential, industrial and other non-office, non-retail space but not including parking area. Include space for amenities, such as physical fitness center and child care center, which are heavily underwritten by the building owner. For public sector property, treat court room/courthouse waiting room, cells/detention room in a police station, and the process space in a post office, as other space.
13D	Total of office (13A), retail (13B) and other (13C) space.
13F	Report the common area, total usable space if the square footage completed in Questions 13A-C are measured using rentable method, the rentable add-on factor if the square footage completed in Questions 13A-C are measured using usable method, and the usable/rentable ratio, if known. If you do not know some of these figures, please feel free to skip them. Their definitions are presented as follows. Common area of a building is space that is not occupied exclusively by one tenant, but is shared by tenants. Some examples include lobbies, hallways, and stairways. Usable area of the building: "The Usable Area of an office shall be computed by measuring to the finished surface of the office side of corridor and other permanent walls, to the center of partitions that separate the office from adjoining Usable Areas, and to the inside finished surface of the dominant portion of the permanent outer building walls." (American National Standard Z65.1-1980) Exclude areas such as mechanical room, janitorial room, restrooms, lobby, and any major vertical penetrations of a multi-tenant floor. The usable/rentable ratio is a positive real number resulting from dividing the usable area in a building by the rentable area. This ratio describes the amount of space that an occupant can expect to utilize, versus the amount that it is leasing. The rentable add-on factor is computed by dividing the difference between the usable square footage and rentable square footage by the amount of usable area. Convert the figure into percentage by multiplying by 100%.
14	The number of buildings, if a complex is being reported. If possible please report each building in a complex separately.
15	Approximate year building opened if the actual year is not known. If more than one building, give year of building with the most space.
16	Number of above ground floors. If more than one building, give height of building wit the most space. A floor with more than half of its outside wall exposed would be considered as above ground floor.
17	The nature of the building's location relative to urban character.
18	The nearest "major" city to the building. For example, if the building is in a suburb of Washington, DC, then you would report Washington, DC as the major city. If your building is not located near a major city then report the closest city of significance.
19A	Is a fee paid to an agency for the management of the building?

19B Check all the appropriate boxes that will describe the office building's type of use:

General	Multi-tenant building. Includes buildings with owner-occupied space if there are other tenants in the building.
Single Purpose	Single tenant building or building that is 100% owner-occupied.
Medical	Building with at least 75% of its space dedicated to doctor's offices and/or medical related offices. Includes owner-occupied or single tenant building if owner/tenant is medical related.
Financial	Building with at least 75% of its space dedicated to financial offices (example: bank headquarters, investment firm, etc.) Includes owner-occupied or single tenant building if owner/tenant is finance oriented.
Government	Government-owned building or building solely occupied and operated by government.

19C Is the majority of the building's insurance covered through a self insurance program (i.e., building does not pay a premium to an insurance company but maintains its own reserve fund to cover losses)? Check "no" if the majority of the building's insurance is covered in a policy with an insurance company.

20A The number of office tenants (leaseholders), retail tenants (leaseholders) and leaseholders of other space. An owner who occupies space should be counted as one tenant.

20B The office square footage occupied by the owner and the largest tenant. If more than one building, sum all the owners' space and sum all the largest tenants' space for all the buildings reported.

21 The number of employees working in the office area, retail area and other area.

22 The average occupancy rate based on leased space for the total office area and total retail area during the previous calendar (or fiscal) year. The average occupancy rate can be estimated by dividing the summation of each monthly occupancy rate by 12. An alternative method is to take the average of the occupancy rate at the beginning and at the end of the year.

23 The annual base rental rate (full service) of office space. Report the gross price quoted the last time office space was leased or offered during the previous calendar (or fiscal) year. Report in dollars per square foot per year.

Retail Area Only

Report the number of retail rentable square feet that apply to 24A, 24B, 24C below. Square feet answers should not exceed the square footage reported in line 13B.

24A The number of retail rentable square feet for which building management supplies cleaning.

24B The number of retail rentable square feet that are under a full service lease.

24C The number of retail rentable square feet for which the building provides or sells energy. The cost of this energy should be included in total building energy expenses.

Income/Expense Summary Section

Numbers in Brackets[] refer to the numbered accounts in the BOMA Chart of Accounts provided at the conclusion of this Instructions Section.
Submit data which covers only the previous calendar or fiscal year. Report in whole dollars—no cents.

The following income and expense summary sections are all that are required for reporting. The expense detail section (back side of survey form) serves as a guide for calculating expense summary figures, and you are encouraged to complete it.

25 Check the appropriate box to indicate if you are reporting in U.S. or Canadian dollars.

Foreword

For 71 years, BOMA International and participating members have created the Experience Exchange Report. The 1991 Report continues to provide the industry with data that has become the industry's most valuable tool for planning, comparing, budgeting and controlling a building's operational income and expenses.

The most comprehensive and user-friendly edition, the 1991 BOMA Experience Exchange Report, contains hundreds of tables, explaining and comparing thousands of statistical data on rental income, cleaning, repair and maintenance expenses, etc., and new in 1991, net parking income per square foot of total building rentable space. The data facilitates comparisons, and focuses on each different type of building and its geographic location.

The members of the Experience Exchange Report Section, the staff at BOMA International and myself would like to thank all who participated in the 1991 BOMA Experience Exchange Report Survey. Without your continued support, the overwhelming success of this publication would not be possible.

Norman J. Short, RPA, Chairman

A User's Guide

The BOMA Experience Exchange Report provides published tables of operating income and expense data for office buildings throughout North America. The data is based on a voluntary survey of over 4,000 office building owners and managers whose buildings represent a wide varied selection of office space. Building owners and managers receive the survey forms (Appendix A contains a sample form) in January of each year and return the forms to BOMA International by March 15th. BOMA International reviews the forms and compiles the data statistically into tables during April and May; publication and distribution of the book occurs in June.

Data Compilation

A completed Experience Exchange Report survey form contains information about a building's yearly operating costs and rental income, as well as data on the building's use and operating characteristics. The income and expense data is categorized according to the functional accounting categories outlined in the BOMA Functional Accounting Guide. Respondents are asked to measure and report space to the BOMA/ANSI Standard Method for Measuring Floor Area in Office Buildings.

How Data Contributors Benefit

Building owners and managers who complete the survey forms each year not only support one of the industry's leading tools for monitoring and analyzing building performance but also receive an Expense Performance Comparison analysis for each building they submit. The Expense Performance Comparison analysis compares a respondent's actual operating expenses with similar buildings in their area on a line-by-line basis.

Organization of the Experience Exchange Report

The Experience Exchange Report contains four major sections of analyses: U.S. Private Sector, U.S. Government Sector, Canada Private Sector, and Canada Government Sector. Within each sector the analyses are grouped according to Cities, Special Studies, and National Cross-Tabulations. The City analyses appear in alphabetical order, with up to 12 analyses for each city. For each city, depending on sample size, sub-analyses distinguish building performance according to location (downtown vs. suburban) and building size.

The National Cross-Tabulations grouping provides analyses sorted by building location, age, size, and height characteristics. Special Studies contain analyses on specific types of office buildings, including comparisons of buildings reporting each year, all-electric buildings, single purpose buildings, financial buildings and medical buildings.

With the exception of the National Occupancy/Location Analyses that disaggregate buildings by occupancy levels, all of the tables reflect buildings that satisfied the following criteria in 1990:

1. At least 70% of the building rentable space is allocated to office type occupants.

2. The average occupancy level for the office space in 1990 was 50% or higher.

Thus, these tables reliably report income and expenses for properties that experienced traditionally prevalent operating conditions. The National Occupancy/Location tables report income and expenses for properties experiencing less than 50% occupancy (annual average), so that the input of lower occupancy levels on expenses can be examined.

*TOTAL BUILDING RENTABLE AREA-AVERAGE DOLLARS/SQ. FT.

©1991 BOMA Experience Exchange Report

Sample Analysis

Explanation of the Analysis Format

The basic format of the analyses contained in the BOMA Experience Exchange Report consists of three sections. The top lefthand section provides income and expense Summary Data, the righthand provides Tenant/Occupancy Information, and the bottom portion supplies Expense Detail Data.

Summary Section

This section provides summary totals for 6 income and 11 expense categories.

The left side of the upper Summary Section presents income and expense figures for the Total Building Rentable Area (Office + Retail + Other). The right side provides figures for Total Office Rentable Area only. Most survey respondents use the BOMA/ANSI Standard Method for Measuring Floor Area in Office Buildings to determine rentable area.

Under the Total Rentable Area headings are the number of buildings reporting in the analysis and the corresponding total building and total office square footage of those buildings.

	TOTAL BUILDING RENTABLE AREA	TOTAL OFFICE RENTABLE AREA
17 BLDS	1,227,796 SQ. FT.	1,212,028 SQ. FT

For all categories in the Summary Section, four types of data are provided: Average, Median, Mid-Range, and Number of Buildings.

#	DOLLARS/SQ. FT.		MID RANGE
BLDS	AVG	MEDIAN	LOW	HIGH

The following set of fictitious data for 10 buildings demonstrates how these figures are calculated.

Cleaning Costs (Theoretical)

Building #	Square Feet	$	Expense
1	134,000	$	73,700
2	79,000	$	53,720
3	280,000	$	235,200
4	121,000	$	110,110
5	590,000	$	566,400
6	91,000	$	92,820
7	1,222,000	$	1,295,320
8	455,000	$	495,950
9	260,000	$	291,200
10	195,000	$	243,750
	3,427,000	$	3,458,170

The Average is calculated by adding all dollars, then all square footage, and dividing total dollars by total square footage.

$$\frac{\text{Total Dollars}}{\text{Total Sq. Ft.}} = \text{AVERAGE Dollars per Square Foot}$$

OR

$$\frac{$3,458,170}{$3,427,000} = $1.009 \text{ per Square Foot}$$

Building		Square Feet	$ Expense	Average/Sq. Ft.
1		134,000	$ 73,700	$ .55
2		79,000	$ 53,720	$ .68
3		280,000	$ 235,200	$ .84
4		121,000	$ 110,110	$ .91	.96
5	MEDIAN	590,000	$ 566,400	$ .96	+1.02
6	THE HALFWAY	91,000	$ 92,820	$1.02	1.98 ÷ 2 = .99
7	POINT OF THE	1,222,000	$1,295,320	$1.06
8	NUMBER OF	455,000	$ 495,950	$1.09
9	DATA ITEMS	260,000	$ 291,200	$1.12
10		195,000	$ 243,750	$1.25

This method is a true average in that it measures the cost or income per square foot without reference to the number or size of buildings contributing data. Buildings with larger amounts of square feet will affect the average value more than smaller buildings. This effect is most noticeable in analyses with few buildings reporting, especially if the large buildings report unusual income or expense figures.

This is one reason the Experience Exchange Report provides as many size group breakdowns as possible for each city, and includes medians and mid-ranges, to allow greater ability to judge the usefulness of each statistic.

The Median is a true measure of the midpoint of the data. To obtain a Median for the 10 sets of data in the following example, the dollars per square foot for each building are arrayed from the lowest value to the highest. Then the computer simply counts halfway through the data and finds the number that lies at the midpoint.

The Mid-Range is calculated by a formula that determines the upper and lower hinge values.

The Mid-Range is an indication of the middle 50% of the data; the Low Mid-Range figure is the number below which 25% of the data items lie, and the High Mid-Range figure is the number above which 25% of the data items lie. The result is a "bracket set" of figures that shows a range of 25% on either side of the center.

The Mid-Range shows the user the distribution of the data range. For data categories with three buildings or fewer, no Mid-Range will be shown.

	Building	Square Feet	$ Expense	Average/Sq. Ft.
1/4 (25%)	1	134,000	$ 73,700	.55
	2	79,000	$ 53,720	.68
	3	280,000	$ 235,200	.84
1/2 (50%)	4 Mid-50% RANGE: 1/4 (25%) FROM THE FIRST AND LAST DATA ITEMS	121,000	$ 110,110	.91	THIS IS THE MID-RANGE- THE MIDDLE 50%
	5	590,000	$ 566,400	.96
	6	91,000	$ 92,820	1.02
	7	1,222,000	$1,295,320	1.06
	8	455,000	$ 495,950	1.09
1/4 (25%)	9	260,000	$ 291,200	1.12
	10	195,000	$ 243,750	1.25

If most building reports show similar amounts, the Mid-Range will be close to the Median:

1	.65
3	.78
4	.81
5	.84	Median	Mid
6	.88	.86	Range
7	.91
8	.96
9	1.01
10	1.12

For this set the corresponding analysis would look like this:

#	DOLLARS/SQ.FT.		MID RANGE
BLDS	AVG	MEDIAN	LOW	HIGH
10		.86	.78	.96

However, if the reports show a great variance in data, then the Mid-Range will show a wide spread:

1	.31
3	.42
4	.66
5	.85	Median	Mid-
6	.99	.92	Range
7	1.05
8	1.16
9	1.21
10	1.29

This analysis line would read as follows:

#	DOLLARS/SQ.FT.		MID RANGE
BLDS	AVG	MEDIAN	LOW	HIGH
10		.92	.42	1.16

The Number of Buildings (BLDS) shows the exact number of buildings supplying data for each income or expense category. It is an extremely significant figure because the number of buildings may vary per income or expense line item. Even if 20 buildings reported data for a particular city, it would not be unusual for only 12 of those buildings to provide data on, for example, elevator repair expenses. This value is therefore a measure or indicator of data quality: The larger the number, the more reliable the calculation of averages.

Tenant/Occupancy Information

The upper right section of the analysis provides information on the tenant and occupancy characteristics of the buildings reporting. For each tenant/occupancy item the figure in the first column is the statistical value while the figure in the second column represents the number of buildings reporting that item.

Tenant/Occupancy information is calculated as follows:

Average Square Feet Per Office Tenant

The Average Square Feet Per Office Tenant is computed by first calculating the actual occupied square footage of each building in the sample by multiplying the square footage of office space in each building by its office occupancy rate. These occupied square footages are then totaled for the entire sample.

Next, the number of tenants is totaled for the sample. Finally, the number of tenants is divided into the total amount of occupied office space to obtain the Average Square Feet Per Office Tenant.

Average Square Feet Per Retail Tenant

The Average Square Feet Per Retail Tenant is calculated in the same manner as that for office tenants except of course using retail space, retail occupancy rates, and retail tenants.

Average Square Feet Per Office Worker

Once again the Average Square Feet Per Office Worker is calculated similarly to the previous descriptions with the exception of using office space, office occupancy, and building population information.

Average Office Occupancy and Average Retail Occupancy

Average Office Occupancy and Average Retail Occupancy are calculated in a manner similar to the prior items. First, the actual occupied square footage of each building is calculated by taking the square footage of the office (or retail) space and multiplying by the office (or retail) occupancy rate. These occupied square footages are then totaled for the entire sample. Next, the total office (or retail) square footages are totaled for the entire sample. Finally, the total occupied office (retail) square footage is divided by the total office (or retail) square footage to obtain the average occupancy rate.

Average Rate Year-End Rent

The Average Rate Year-End Rent is the average of the base rate of the last space rented during calendar year 1988 and is calculated the same way as all other averages. The year-end base rent for each building is first calculated by multiplying the year-end dollar per square foot base rent by the square footage of office space. The calculated dollar amounts are totaled and then divided by the summation of office space.

Average Net Parking Income/Stall

The average net parking income per stall is calculated by dividing the summation of net parking income (gross parking income minus expenses), by the summation of the number of parking stalls.

Rentable/Gross Square Feet

Rentable/Gross Square Feet is calculated by totaling the "Total Construction Area of Building" figures for the sample, then totaling the "Total Rentable Square Feet" figures, and dividing the total of the Construction Area into the total of the "Total Rentable Square Feet." This statistic is designed to give the average efficiency ratio of the buildings in the sample.

Expense Detail Section

The bottom section of each analysis provides expense detail information. These expenses are components of the summary expense categories given in the upper Expense Summary Section. Over 50 individual expense detail categories are provided. A sample of this section:

In the lower Expense Detail Section only an Average figure is given for an expense detail category along with the Number of Buildings reporting that category. All Average figures represent Total Building Rentable Area.

The category totals in the Expense Detail Section will often vary slightly, in both dollar total and number of buildings, from the expense summary figures in the Summary Section. This is due to the format of the survey form. The front page of the EER survey form provides the Summary Section and Tenant/Occupancy Information figures. The back page, which is optional to the survey respondent, supplies Expense Detail data.

Many respondents report zero values for detailed expense categories (zero and blank responses are treated equivalently). In order to incorporate as much information as possible into the analyses, each expense item in the analysis is calculated separately according to the number of buildings responding to that survey question. This data compilation system allows use of individual data items even when a form is incomplete. The component figures, including the Expense Detail totals, stand by themselves. Consequently, the Number of Buildings statistic is very important when examining an analysis; it reveals how many buildings actually responded to a survey question.

In short, each statistic, whether an individual component or total category, can be considered meaningful in its own right and representative of the widest amount of data available.

Answers to Frequently Asked Questions

1. How are the statistics presented?

All data is presented in dollars per square foot per year based on the income and expense dollars incurred during the calendar/fiscal year 1990. For instance, $10.00 should be read as $10.00 per square foot per year. Canada analyses are reported in Canadian dollars.

2. What unit of floor measurement are these dollars applied against?

Most calculations are in rentable square feet, of an equivalent floor measurement method as in the case of single, special purpose, and government buildings. Survey respondents are asked to report rentable square feet according to the BOMA/ANSI Standard Method for Measuring Floor Area in Office Buildings.

3. How are the income and expense categories determined?

The income and expense categories presented in the EER are based on functional accounting categories common throughout the office building industry. These categories are defined in the BOMA Functional Accounting Guide as well as the actual survey form (Appendix A).

4. Why don't the figures in the individual expense detail categories add up to the expense totals?

Each individual category, including the "Totals" category, stands by itself. In order to provide the most complete analysis of data possible, the system allows the use of individual data items, even when a survey form is incomplete. For example, a survey report may only provide information on Cleaning and Utilities. These two items will be used to compute statistics in these two categories, but the report will be removed from any totals computations and any other statistic where it did not provide information.

In short, each statistic, whether an individual category or a category "total" can be considered meaningful in its own right and representative of the widest amount of data available.

5. If a building does not provide dollar information for an item, is that building's square footage still used in the calculation?

No. When dollar information is not provided, the square footage for that building is removed from the calculation. This is why the number of buildings is shown for each category.

6. Where do I find energy costs?

Energy costs are the major component of the "Utilities" category. The only other component of this category is Water/Sewer, which tends to be relatively small amount. Therefore, for general use purposes, the "Utilities" category may be considered to be energy.

7. How can I find out the cost per rented square foot?

"Office Rented" statistics, roughly comparable to those in older editions of the EER, can be derived by simply dividing any desired office area dollar statistic by the average occupancy rate.

8. Is the "average rate year-end rent" the current market rental rate?

No. This data figure does not reflect current market rental rate for several reasons.

First, it is a simple average of the amounts provided by the survey respondents that responded to the question: "The last time you leased office space during this reporting period, what was its gross annual base rental rate?"

Second, "the last time you leased space" could have been early in the reporting year At the latest, it would be as of December 31. Therefore it can never be a "current" figure.

However, it does provide a strong indicator of the actual, contracted rate at which space was leased, generally during the latter part of the year. In this respect it may vary from the "asking price" in any city and may therefore be a better basis for projecting achievable income if no significant changes in the market have occurred since the time the data was collected.

9. In an analysis, does the Number of Buildings figure equal the number of survey reports used in that analysis?

No! the number of buildings does not necessarily indicate the number of survey reports in each analysis, because a single report may be filed for more than one building. For instance, a survey may be filed on a complex of several buildings using a single accounting system. Therefore, a Number of Buildings (# BLDS) figure indicating 10 buildings may actually be compiled from only six survey reports, with one or more reports containing more than one building. This factor affects the data in two ways.

First, a data item will show a Mid-Range only when four or more buildings report that item. But, regardless of the number of buildings shown, if only three of fewer reports provided data, no Mid-Range will be given.

Second, reports with more than one building are eliminated in analyses of multiple building characteristics, such as city/size groups, because multiple building reports usually aggregate buildings of different size, ages, and/or heights. Removing multiple building reports allows the most accurate cross-tabulation analyses to be provided. Consequently, the number of buildings in the size grouping will often be less than the number of "All Downtown" or "All Suburban".

10. Whom can I contact for further information?

The BOMA International Research staff in Washington, D.C., will respond to all inquiries on EER calculations and procedures. You may contact them at (202) 408-2688.

A Note on the 1991 EER Data Processing and Use of the Tables

The statistics published in the Experience Exchange Report can be only as good as the data provided on the survey forms, and the quality with which this data is entered and processed to produce the publication's statistical tables. The research staff at BOMA International continually strives to improve the quality of this process to assure that the users of the statistics are not misled by erroneous or non-representational numbers. Nevertheless, data processing for an industry as diverse as the office building industry inherently contains many assumptions and conditions of which the reader should be aware.

Statistical Representation

In any typical metropolitan area, the number of office buildings is quite large, relative to the number for which data was received. This fact raises the question of how representative are the respondent properties of the population as a whole. For larger properties (those in excess of 100,000 square feet), the answer is "usually good" because the number of survey forms received is sufficiently high for larger properties to account for variations in expenses among them. For smaller properties and for those tables where sample sizes are smaller, the results are less reliable.

Variations in building size, age, height, occupancy, and management can and do affect individual income or expense line-items, however, that is the reason for publishing so many different tables. Unfortunately, the downside to this approach is that many tables contain statistics based on so few buildings that the input data is less likely to be representative of all office buildings conforming to that table's characteristics (location, occupancy, size, etc.).

Practically speaking, a safe approach is to start with the statistics in a table for all downtown or all suburban buildings in a city, then use the national cross-tabulation tables to identify the trend in a line-item as it relates to building size, occupancy, height, or age to extrapolate the result desired.

A critical number to examine is the number of buildings which provide data for a given line-item, such as cleaning expenses. If the number is much less than 25, then the resulting statistics in the table should be considered with caution.

Differences between the average value and the median value for a line-item provide clues to the diversity of the underlying sample. If the difference between the average and the median values is large, then the sample of buildings providing data may contain few very large buildings and many smaller properties. Furthermore, the large buildings are reporting very different income (or expenses) than the smaller properties. If the user's building is smaller, then the median values should be considered more heavily; if the user's building is larger, then the average values will be more representative.

Content of Line-Items

The statistics reported for each line-item are based on the data provided by building managers for that line-item. But what data do building managers provide for a given line-item? Does it cover the same building functions and operations in all buildings? In the case of very specific line-items, such as those appearing on the back page of the survey form (see Appendix A), the data is more likely to be reflective of what the line-item describes, and in accordance with the descriptive material in BOMA International's Functional Accounting Guide and Chart of Accounts. For the more broad line-items reported on the front page of the survey form, however, the reader must assess how likely are building managers to interpret the survey questions in a particular way.

One source of confusion involves the reporting of total expenses. If a building manager reports component expenses for, say, cleaning and administration, but neglects utilities, repairs/maintenance, and roads/grounds/security, is it appropriate to include this respondent's total expenses (equal to the sum of cleaning and administration only) in the calculation of statistics for total expenses? To avoid misrepresentation, the calculation of statistics for total expenses includes only those buildings for which the manager provided data on cleaning, repairs and maintenance, and utilities, unless the total expenses reported by the building manager exceeded the sum of these three components. In other words, the statistics for total expenses will not include data from buildings in which the manager implied that no utilities were consumed, or the building required no repairs and maintenance, or cleaning.

Similarly, the calculation of Total Operating Plus Fixed Expenses excludes those buildings for which neither fixed expenses nor total operating expenses were reported. Furthermore, with the exception of the buildings from the Government Sector, the calculation of Total Fixed Expenses in the Detail Section also excludes those buildings for which no real estate tax was provided.

A new data checking program was implemented for better quality control and it also eliminated outliers, data points that are far beyond the distribution of the rest of the data supplied. As a general rule, the outlier criterion was 400% or more above average values. Thus, many of the data for respondents', that was unusual but a true and accurate reflection of experience is not eliminated. The same test was applied to all the sample data sets for both two-year and five-year control sample analyses.

Besides, the quality of data was enhanced by adjusting the square footage of buildings whose managers employ various measurement methods other than the Rentable Area Method, and adjusting income for the owner-occupied space. Over 75% of the building managers responded to this survey reported the use of the BOMA Rentable Area Method in measuring space. By expanding the survey form to include questions on common area, usable area, usable/rentable ratio and rentable add-on ratio, we were able to convert the square footage of the rest of the buildings (25%) into rentable method. The standardization of most of the equations' denominator, namely the square footage, improves the accuracy of the resulted statistics. The average effect of this change was to decrease a typical expense item by 1.5%.

In the survey, property managers are not consistent in accounting for space occupied by the owners of the buildings in reporting income and expenses. In some cases, managers include expenses incurred from the owner-occupied space, but do not report the corresponding rent. These discrepancies were adjusted both this year and last year. The adjusted office income is derived by first calculating the rental rate in dollars per square foot using office space minus owner-occupied space as the denominator, and then multiply this rate by the total office space adjusted for office occupancy.

This year, the 1991 Experience Exchange Report Survey Form was expanded to include questions regarding parking income, either gross or net, and parking expenses. Statistics for net parking income per building rentable (gross parking income minus expenses) are presented in the 1991 Experience Exchange Report.

Readers should be cautious in comparing the current year's income data with data reported in older versions of the Experience Exchange Report. The adjustments to owner-occupied space were not made prior to 1989 and net parking income was not reported prior to this year, 1990.

For year-to-year rental income comparison purposes, the use of the current year two-year control sample analyses is recommended since both sets of sample data were adjusted for owner-occupied space. (See explanation of control samples in the bottom section of this article.) Also, 1990 total income data includes parking income, and parking income was not included in 1989, a fair comparison for total income would be to use the Total Rent line item.

Averages and Medians

Some confusion has arisen when users of the Experience Exchange Report attempt to compare the detailed breakout of expenses, as reported on the back page of the survey form, with the totals reported on the front page. Before 1989, the median statistic only was calculated for data on the back page. Since then, medians were replaced by averages, or statistical means for data on the back page, so that these averages can be compared more readily with the averages reported on the front page.

The lower and upper mid-range values are intended to report the quartile values for a distribution. In other words, for a given line-item, the lower mid-range value should be the value for that building that is one fourth from the bottom of all the values reported. When the number of buildings reporting is small, however, the one-fourth mark (or three-fourths mark for the upper value) may not correspond exactly to a specific building. To improve the reliability of what is reported, the lower and upper mid-range values are the true hinges. The formula for calculating hinges is not presented here but is contained in many statistical methods manuals; basically, it involves calculating an average value between the two building values that are just below and above the one-fourth level (or three-fourth level).

For example, if a given table reports data for eight buildings, and the data from these eight buildings is ordered from lowest value to highest, then the lower hinge is calculated by averaging the values for buildings number two and three, and the upper hinge is calculated by averaging the values for buildings number six and seven. The median is calculated by averaging the values for buildings four and five.

Control Samples, and Measuring Trends

For many years the Experience Exchange Report has contained, as it does this year, tables of statistics for income and expenses for control samples: either two-year or five-year control samples. What this means is that the statistics reported for two different years, for example, are based on data supplied by the sample buildings in both years. Thus, changes from year to year are expected to be more reliable because the same buildings are reported in both years. This approach is intended to avoid the problem that arises when differences are calculated based on all buildings reporting in each of two years. In this latter situation, if the composition of the sample changes, are the changes in expenses from one year to the next attributable to changes in the industry, or changes in the samples reporting each year?

Unfortunately, control samples contain a bias, which is often referred to as a regression to the mean. For reasons that do not merit detailed explanation here, the use of control samples tends to underestimate increases in income from the first year to the second, and overestimate increases in expenses. The result is that estimates of changes in net operating income are biased downwards. This bias becomes more exaggerated in five year control sample statistics based on buildings that are reported for five consecutive years.

The Experience Exchange Report contains these control sample tables this year to assure continuity for those users who find them to be valuable. However, the analytical articles prepared for the Canadian and United States statistics contain the results of a more reliable method for determining year-to-year changes in industry income and expenses. The reader interested in these trends should read the appropriate analytical discussions.

Overview of the 1991 Survey Data

W. Eilen Ku and Deidre A. Schexnayder
Research Division, BOMA International

The 1991 BOMA Experience Exchange Report includes data for over 4,500 office buildings located throughout North America. This sample includes 3,615 U.S. private sector properties, 420 government office buildings in the United States, 199 privately held Canadian properties, and 341 government buildings in Canada (Table 1). In total, this sample covers over 805 million square feet of office space in North America.

Approximately 15 percent of the buildings reported in the Experience Exchange Report are smaller than 50,000 square feet. The average amount of space per building in the sample this year is 176,000 square feet, in contrast with an average size last year of 179,500 square feet. Nevertheless, because of their size, the larger buildings dominate the statistical average values (but not the median values) in those tables that do not distinguish buildings by size.

The survey process solicited responses from property managers throughout many North American cities, and 122 cities are represented this year by three or more properties. Buildings included in this survey are not all owned or managed by members of BOMA. Yet the responses, because they are voluntary, probably reflect the experience of the more efficiently managed office properties in the United States and Canada. For every property included in the statistical tables, over 70 percent of the rentable space is allocated to office type activities. Unless stated otherwise, each property included in a statistical table maintained an average occupancy level for the year greater than 50 percent. In fact, over seventy-nine percent of the properties so included experienced occupancy levels for the year in excess of 75 percent, and the average occupancy level is typically about 90 percent (see separate analyses of U.S. and Canadian markets).

The analysis of the data, presented in separate discussions that follow, relies heavily on the comparison of reported performance for buildings in 1989 versus 1990. To assure that the analysis reflects trends in the industry as opposed to changes in the sample of all properties reporting to the Experience Exchange Report, control samples are employed. These control samples are composed of all respondents who reported in two or more years. Comparison of their reports from one year to the next, for the same buildings, is more likely to reveal the effects of changes in the industry (both space markets and operating environments) than is a comparison of all respondents to the Experience Exchange Report each year.

Many respondents report the results of more than one building on a survey form, and the number of buildings reported by a respondent may change from one year to the next. Because these shifts are small, these respondents are included in the control samples, and this is the reason why the number of buildings and the total square footage covered by a control sample may change from one year to the next.

U.S. Office Buildings Still Show Signs of Poor Performance Amidst Weak Markets

W. Ellen Ku and Deidre A. Schexnayder

U.S. Private Sector

Office building owners and managers who reported to the Experience Exchange Report for calendar year 1990 suggest that operating performance has increased slightly from 1989. This sluggish performance is due to persistently weak commercial real estate markets. In contrast with the analysis of the 2-year control sample data for 1989 which reported a modest 1.4 percent gain in net operating income on a real basis (adjusted for 4.8 percent inflation), this year's analysis indicates that building owners and managers achieved a loss of 2.4 percent (adjusted for 4.1 percent inflation).

Based on a comparison of performance for properties that were reported in both 1989 and 1990, total income increased by .7 percent, and total operating and fixed expenses increased by 2.9 percent (Table 1). Office income rose as well as retail income which reflects a slight increase in average office and retail occupancy levels (see Table 2). Average cleaning expenses increased on a nominal basis by 4.6 percent between 1989 and 1990. Fixed expenses (primarily composed of property taxes) that traditionally rise by 10 percent or more rose by 4.9 percent between 1989 and 1990. Average net operating income (NOI) can be estimated by subtracting from the average value of reported total income (rent) the average value of total expenses. Average NOI increased by $.12 per square foot last year, an increase of 1.8 percent.

According to the data presented in Table 1, the median values revealed a brighter picture than the average values, which suggests that smaller office properties fared better than the larger properties. The larger properties dominate the results calculated on the basis of averages, and the smaller properties dominate the results based on analysis of median values.

These results are the averaged responses of owners and managers of 2,191 office buildings containing 462.1 million square feet of space. Although the statistics are not shown here, a comparison of performance for all U.S. private sector properties reported in the 1990 Experience Exchange Report (1989 data) and the 1991 Experience Exchange Report (1990 data) was consistent with the findings for the control sample. In fact, as was pointed out in the previous discussion on the data as a whole, the comparison of all properties is typically more positive than is the year to year change in performance for the properties in the control sample.

The results reported here, while indicative of trends for the entire industry, must be interpreted carefully, because the properties analyzed are not necessarily representative of the industry as a whole. For example, properties that reported an average occupancy level below 50 percent for 1990 are not included in this analysis.

Figure 1 illustrates the overall ratio of operating and fixed expenses, by expense categories, to total expenses in the U.S. private sector. Based on the complete sample of private sector respondents, fixed expenses, notably property taxes and insurance, constitute the largest source of expenses in 1990. Utilities expenses, which are almost all energy, account for a slightly lower proportion. Fixed expenses and utilities expenses account for over 50 percent of total operating plus fixed expenses.

U.S. Government Sector

Managers of government buildings reporting to the Experience Exchange Report, whether they managed federal, state, county, or municipal properties, experienced an increase in expenses on a real level, as Table 3 reveals. The data in this table, which reflects a control sample of 309 government buildings, indicates that the repairs and maintenance expenses increased by 6.1 percent or $.07 per square foot, utility costs experienced a 5.6 percent change between 1989 and 1990, and administrative expenses increased by 3.9 percent. Cleaning expenses contributed the least to the increase in total operating expenses, with a .8 percent increase from 1989 to 1990. Roads, grounds and security, with a 36.0 percent decline, helped offset rising expenses.

Overall, the buildings included in this control sample reported a 6.2 percent nominal increase in total expenses, or $.29 per square foot. Adjusted for an inflation rate of 4.1 percent, the increase in average total expenses between 1989 and 1990 was 1.9 percent.

Summary

The office properties in each city (and, for each city, downtown versus suburban locations) can be expected to report performance that vary from the overall, nationally averaged results reviewed here.

The Experience Exchange Report contains many tables to assist in distinguishing among these differences because they are so substantial and important. Nevertheless, the overall direction and trends of the office building industry can be assessed from a review of the averaged performance results of 758 U.S. private sector properties that have reported every year for the last five years (or more).

Tables 2, 4, 5 and Figure 2 illustrate the significant impact that an excessive amount of office space on the market has had on office property management and operations. Consistent with the results for the two year control sample, the buildings covered in the five year control sample continue to report a decline in real estimated net operating income. In fact, the net operating income reported in 1990 is lower than the figure reported five years earlier in 1986, when they are adjusted for inflation. Nevertheless, an examination of the nominal value suggests that the net operating income declined 1.15 percent from 1989.

These figures may not be reflective of the market as a whole, of course, because of the selectivity of the sample. But they do reflect the impact that new space has had on the occupancy of prime, existing properties that were previously fully occupied. As Table 2 reveals, average occupancy levels in the five year control sample properties continue to decline, and at a higher rate than previously.

Canadian Office Buildings Facing Weak Markets

W. Ellen Ku and Deidre A. Schexnayder

Canada Private Office Buildings

The owners and managers of private sector Canadian office buildings experienced an increase in net operating income between 1989 and 1990, based on a control sample survey of 116 properties encompassing almost 31.8 million square feet of space. These properties, for which income and expense data was reported in both 1989 and 1990, achieved a 5.1 percent increase, or $.53 (Canadian) per square foot, in estimated average net operating income in 1990, relative to 1989. Adjusted for a 4.8 percent inflation rate, the real gain was .10 percent.

The $.56 increase per square foot was the result of a $1.44 per square foot increase in average total income, which was offset by a $.24 per square foot increase in average operating expenses (Table 1). The estimate of total expenses (including leasing) rose by $.91 per square foot, or a 9.6 percent increase.

The cost of cleaning increased in Canadian private sector office buildings in 1990. Average cleaning expenses increased on a nominal basis, 5.3 percent, or $.05 per square foot. The other major operating expenses, repairs/maintenance and utilities, rose from last year, 4.5 percent and 2.6 percent respectively. Average administrative expenses rose by 9.9 percent between 1989 and 1990. Roads, grounds and security declined 2.4 percent in comparison to a 22.9 percent increase a year ago.

A phenomenon which appears to be consistent with a longstanding trend is the reported change in average fixed costs, primarily property taxes. Between 1989 and 1990, the control sample buildings reported an increase of $.46 per square foot, or about 13.3 percent. This corresponds with a trend of several years duration, in which the typical increase in average fixed expenses was approximately 10 percent.

A closer look at mean and median measurements suggests that total income for smaller properties in Canada did not fare as well as total income for larger buildings. As Table 1 reveals, the percent change in the median value for total income was smaller than the percent change in the average value, which indicates that smaller properties, which dominate the median value, did not experience as large income increases as did the larger buildings. However, the average value for total operating plus fixed expenses rose more between 1989 and 1990 than did the median value for total operating plus fixed expenses; which means that the smaller properties experienced smaller increases in total operating plus fixed expenses.

All of the results reported here must be regarded cautiously because of the small sample size. Whereas data covering 199 private office buildings in Canada were received this year, reports for only 116 of these properties were received in 1989 as well. Furthermore, arithmetic by columns reveals some inconsistencies because each line item is reported and analyzed separately. Finally, as the Overview article presented at the front of the book points out, analysis of net operating income from control samples, as these are constructed, tend to be biased downwards, that is, to imply less favorable results than those actually achieved by the typical property owner or manager.

Figure 1 illustrates the ratio of expenses by category to the total for all Canada private sector respondents. The leading source of expense for Canadian office properties continues to be fixed expenses, followed by utilities, repairs/maintenanc , and cleaning. In contrast with property managers' experience in the United States, Canadian property owners pay substantially more in property taxes, the major component of fixed expenses.

Canada Government Office Buildings

The analysis of Canadian government office buildings reporting to the Experience Exchange Report this year suggests that increases in total operating expenses was slightly less than the rate of inflation by .4%. Closer examination of individual expenses components is presented as follows. The three major components of expense, cleaning, repairs/maintenance, and utilities, all experienced increases in expenses above the rate of inflation in 1990 (4.8%) if average costs are examined. Average cleaning costs, for example, rose by 4.9 percent, from $1.02 to $1.07 per square foot. Average repairs and maintenance expenses rose by 13.9 percent, from $1.51 to $1.72 per square foot, and utilities increased by 8.8 percent, from $1.59 to $1.73 per square foot, due to the fact that unit costs of various utility sources went up in 1990. On the other hand, administrative expenses dropped 26% or $.13 per square foot. Reported total operating expenses rose by 4.6 percent, or $.22 per square foot. On a real basis, adjusted for inflation, total operating expenses actually dropped .4 percent.

All of these results must be considered with due caution, however, because the sample size is so small: 95 buildings containing only 13.9 million square feet of space.

Summary

In 1990, estimated net operating income decreased by 2.54 percent in nominal dollars, or by 7.29 percent in real dollars. Real income dropped 2.36 percent from 1989, along with a 5.12 percent rise in real total expenses. An examination of the five year control sample of private sector Canadian properties indicated an increase in fixed expenses of 26 percent over five years. This percent increase, mainly due to the 14.20 percent jump of fixed expenses from 1989 to 1990, almost caught up with the 30 percent increase of fixed expenses experienced by private sector U.S. properties over the past 5 years. It is important to point out, however, that Canadian properties pay fixed expenses that on average are approximately 19 percent higher than the payments by U.S. properties.

As Table 2 reveals, occupancy levels for the 2-year control sample of properties reveals a slight decline from 91.4 percent in 1989 to 90.9 percent in 1990. The 5-year control indicates a decrease from 93.8 percent in 1989 to 91.4 percent in 1990.

Building Data Section

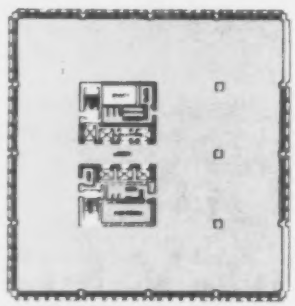
Question N°
1-4	The name and street address of the building being reported.
5-9	The name and mailing address of the person to whom the Expense Performance Comparison is to be sent.
10	The name and telephone number of the person preparing the survey form.
11	The appropriate box checked indicates the method of floor measurement used to determine the building's square footage. (Note: if reporting in square meters, indicate this directly on the survey form.) If convenient, we prefer that you use the BOMA Standard Method of Floor Measurement "Rentable Area" full floor method as shown in the diagram below:

How to Calculate Rentable Area*

The Rentable Area of a floor shall be computed by measuring to the inside finished surface of the dominant portion of the permanent outer building walls, excluding any major vertical penetration of the floor.

No deductions shall be made for columns and projections necessary to the building.

Include space such as mechanical room, janitorial room, restrooms and lobby of the floor.



*Source: "Standard Method of Measuring Floor Area in Office Buildings", American National Standards Institute/BOMA International, 1989

12A	Total square footage of space for office use. Include space occupied by the owner and/or single occupant. Include space such as computer center, copy/mail room, and cafeteria which serves the tenant operations.
12B	Total rentable square footage of retail areas. Include space for physical fitness center and child care center if operated as stand-alone entities and are not subsidized as amenities. (see the definition of Other Space for amenities, Question 12C).
12C	Total rentable square footage of residential, industrial and other non-office, non-retail space but not including parking area. Include space for amenities, such as physical fitness center and child care center, which are heavily underwritten by the building owner. For public sector property, treat court room/courthouse waiting room, cells/detention room in a police station, and the process space in a post office, as other space.
12D	Total of office (12A), retail (12B) and other (12C) space.
12E	The Constructed area of the building, excluding parking areas: "The Construction Area of a floor shall be computed by measuring to the outside finished surface of permanent outer building walls. The Construction Area of a building shall be the sum of the constructed area of all enclosed floors of the building, including basements, mechanical equipment, floors, penthouses, and the like." (From the American National Standard Z65.1-1989)
12F	Report the common area, total usable space if the square footage completed in Questions 12A-C are measured using rentable method, the rentable add-on factor if the square footage completed in Questions 12A-C are measured using usable method, and the usable/rentable ratio, if known. If you do not know some of these figures, please feel free to skip them. Their definitions are presented as follows: Common area of a building is space that is not occupied exclusively by one tenant, but is shared by tenants. Some examples include lobbies and hallways. Usable area of the building: "The Usable Area of an office shall be computed by measuring to the finished surface of the office side of corridor and other permanent walls, to the center of partitions that separate the office from adjoining Usable Areas, and to the inside finished surface of the dominant portion of the permanent outer building walls." (American National Standard Z65.1-1989) Exclude areas such as mechanical room, janitorial room, restrooms, lobby, and any major vertical penetrations of a multi-tenant floor. The usable/rentable ratio is a positive real number resulting from dividing the usable area in a building by the rentable area. This ratio describes the amount of space that an occupant can expect to utilize, versus the amount that it is leasing. The rentable add-on factor is computed by dividing the difference between the usable square footage and rentable square footage by the amount of usable area. Convert the figure into percentage by multiplying by 100%.
13	Report the total number of stalls and the total square footage of parking space if available.
14	The number of buildings, if a complex is being reported. If possible please report each building in a complex separately.
15	Approximate year building opened if the actual year is not known. If more than one building, give year of building with the most space.
16	Number of above ground floors. If more than one building, give height of building with the most space. A floor with more than half of its outside wall exposed would be considered as above ground floor.
17	The nature of the building's location relative to urban character.
18	The nearest "major" city to the building. For example, if the building is in a suburb of Washington, DC, then you would report Washington, DC as the major city. If your building is not located near a major city then report the closest city of significance.
19A	Is a fee paid to an agency for the management of the building?

19B Check all the appropriate boxes that will describe the office building's type of use:

General	Multi-tenant building. Includes buildings with owner-occupied space if there are other tenants in the building.
Single Purpose	Single tenant building or building that is 100% owner-occupied.
Medical	Building with at least 75% of its space dedicated to doctor's offices and/or medical related offices. Includes owner-occupied or single tenant building if owner/tenant is medical related.
Financial	Building with at least 75% of its space dedicated to financial offices (example: bank headquarters, investment firm, etc.) Includes owner-occupied or single tenant building if owner/tenant is finance oriented.
Government	Government-owned building or building solely occupied and operated by government.

20A The number of office tenants (leaseholders), retail tenants (leaseholders) and leaseholders of other space. An owner who occupies space for purposes other than property management should be counted as one tenant.

20B The office square footage occupied by the owner and the largest tenant. If more than one building, sum all the owners' space and sum all the largest tenants' space for all the buildings reported.

21 The number of employees working in the office area, retail area and other area. Exclude building employees such as building engineers, repairs and maintenance staff and in-house cleaning staff.

22 The average occupancy rate based on leased space for the total office area and total retail area during the previous calendar (or fiscal) year. The average occupancy rate can be estimated by dividing the summation of each monthly occupancy rate by 12. An alternative method is to divide the sum of the occupancy rate at the beginning and at the end of the year by two.

23 The annual base rental rate (full service) of office space. Report the gross price quoted the last time office space was leased or offered during the previous calendar (or fiscal) year. Report in dollars per square foot per year.

Retail Area Only

Report the number of retail rentable square feet that apply to 24A, 24B, 24C below. Square feet answers should not exceed the square footage reported in line 12B.

24A The number of retail rentable square feet for which building management supplies cleaning.

24B The number of retail rentable square feet for which building management provides repairs/maintenance service.

24C The number of retail rentable square feet for which the building provides or sells energy. The cost of this energy should be included in total building energy expenses.

Income/Expense Summary Section

Numbers in Brackets[] refer to the numbered accounts in the BOMA Chart of Accounts provided at the conclusion of this Instructions Section.

Submit data which covers only the previous calendar or fiscal year. Report in whole dollars—no cents.

The following income and expense summary sections are all that are required for reporting. The expense detail section (back side of survey form) serves as a guide for calculating expense summary figures, and you are encouraged to complete it.

25 Check the appropriate box to indicate if you are reporting in U.S. or Canadian dollars.

Income Section

Income from all rentable space, including the fair market value rent of space occupied by owner or manager. Normal escalation income and normal operating expense recovery should be reported in the appropriate rental income category.

26A Base rental and operating expense escalation/recovery income from office areas. Include office tenant payment for non-lease provided energy sales and for extraordinary services not included in the lease. [30 000 - 30 500]

26B Base rental and operating expense escalation/recovery and percentage rental income from retail space in the office building. Include retail tenant payment for non-lease provided energy sales and for extraordinary services not included in the lease. [31 000 - 31 600]

26C Rental income from other areas such as storage space, antenna and express parcel space ental. [33 000 - 33 500]

26D Total of office rental income (26A), retail income (26B) and other space rental income (26C).

27 Report income from the operation of parking facilities. Please indicate whether the amount is on gross or net basis. If gross income is reported, the corresponding parking expenses should be reported in Question 39. [32 000 - 32 300]

28 Report all non-rental income. Include wastepaper sales, vending machine collections, and all other non-rental income. Normal escalation income should be reported in lines 26A-C. [34 000 - 34 300]

29 Total of total rental income (26D), parking income (27) and miscellaneous income (28).

Expense Summary Section

Expense summary figures are totals of detail categories. The expense detail categories are on the back side of the survey form. We suggest that you skip to the back page now, complete it, and simply transfer your expenses to the expense summary section on the front. For expenses related to special tenant services, see Expense Detail Section (next section).

30 All required items for both daytime and nighttime cleaning of offices, public areas, atriums, elevators, restrooms, windows, etc. Includes upkeep and ordinary expensed replacement of cleaning equipment and supplies. Exclude any expenses for machine rooms and other restricted access areas. CLEANING contains the expense detail categories of payroll, contract service, supplies and trash removal. [40 000 - 40 500]

31 All expenses for the general repairs and maintenance of the building including common areas and general upkeep. Includes both in-house payroll and contracted services. REPAIRS AND MAINTENANCE contains the expense detail categories of payroll, contracted elevator, HVAC, electrical, structural/roof, plumbing, fire and life safety expenses, and other building maintenance supplies. [41 000 - 41 800]

32 All utilities expensed to the building. Includes energy that is sub-metered, even if you are receiving income for it. Report Total expense, not Net expense after tenant reimbursement. If utilities are metered directly from the utility company to the tenant, then estimate the expense and indicate, on the form, that it is an estimate. UTILITIES contains the expense detail categories of electricity, gas, fuel oil, purchased steam, purchased chilled water, coal and water/sewer. [42 000 - 42 800]

33 Expenses related to the exterior maintenance of the building (such as landscaping, snow removal, parking lot repairs, site signage, site lighting, etc.) and expenses to the security of tenants and the building. Exclude expenses related to the building structure itself or remote mechanical equipment. If the building charges a parking fee, exclude any of the parking area's maintenance costs; those costs will be recorded as Parking Expenses in Question 39. ROADS/GROUNDS/SECURITY contains the expense detail categories of roads/grounds payroll, contract services and other expenses, and security payroll, contract services and other expenses. [43 000 - 43 500]

34 Expenses directly connected with administration of the building. Exclude general maintenance/operating costs and leasing expenses. ADMINISTRATIVE contains the expense detail categories of payroll, management fees, professional fees (not lease-related), general office expense and other administrative expense. [44 000 - 44 400]

35 Total of CLEANING (30), REPAIRS AND MAINTENANCE (31), UTILITIES (32), ROADS/GROUNDS/SECURITY (33), and ADMINISTRATIVE (34) EXPENSES

36 FIXED EXPENSES contains the expense detail categories of real estate taxes, building insurance, personal property tax and other tax. [47 000 - 47 300]

37 Total of OPERATING EXPENSES (35) and FIXED EXPENSES (36).

38 Expenditures directly related to the leasing of space. Depending on the accounting methods used, report either the directly expensed value or the amortized/depreciated value. [46 000 - 46 600, 48 000 - 48 300, 49 300]

39 Expenses directly connected with administration and operation of parking facilities. Include expenses such as cleaning, repairs/maintenance, utilities, roads/grounds/security, administrative, fixed expense and leasing expense if the parking facility is operated directly by the building owner or manager. Or else, report the management fee if the parking facility is operated by a separate contractor specializing in parking operations. Do not include any of the parking related expenses if the parking facility is free of charge; those expenses should be reported in Question 33, Roads/Grounds/Security, instead. [45 000 - 45 600]

40 Check "yes" if the income figures reported in line 26 include rental charges for owner-occupied space.

41 Check "yes" if the expense figures reported in lines 30-34 and line 36 include charges for owner-occupied space. Provide names of the exceptional expense items if some of the expense items reported do not include charges for owner-occupied space. Or vice versa.
